New Members and Guests

No new members or visitors.

Announcements

Muensch Yarns is having a sale at its location on Scott Street in conjunction with Knitterly.

Buttons and Bows is going out of business and will close its doors in mid-August.

The TKGGA show is in Oakland from September 27 through September 30.

Old Business

Elaine Johnson was a judge of knitted articles for the Sonoma Fair (through July 30) and commented on how well the judges are treated. She also was impressed with the number of articles submitted for judging at the fair, especially when compared to those at the Marin County Fair.

New Business

No new business.

Charities

Carita Lynch expressed appreciation to all the Guild members who donated to the Valley of the Moon blanket project.

Treasurer's Report

The Guild's account still has money.

Media Report

The Yahoo Group list is very handy. If you are not yet hooked up, get in touch with Kim Huynh.

Group Project

Online voting determined that modular knitting is the most popular idea for a group project. Nazee Fard's cardigan design "Where Am I?" was the unanimous choice for a pattern.

Program

Nazee Fard gave an enlightening program on how the design and publishing world works.

Marcia Hammett will present a program on machine knitting at the August meeting.

Diane Sack is working on a field trip to Laces in Berkeley while the knitted lace exhibit is still there.

Show and Tell

The show and tell was inspiring.

Raffle

Beth Saucier was the winner of this month's raffle.

The meeting was adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,
Cindy Morgan
